Service Learning Impacting Citizenship Camp

August 3rd - August 7th, 2009

The Volunteer Center of Greensboro is looking for rising 9th - 12th graders to participate in our Service Learning Impacting Citizenship Camp (SLICC). SLICC is an effort to empower local high school students to impact their community as engaged and informed citizens. The Volunteer Center staff and college students working as group leaders will lead teams of up to ten campers through educational activities, volunteer service, and reflection activities.

Speakers: In 2008, Senator Kay Hagan and Greensboro Mayor Yvonne Johnson spoke at SLICC. Speakers from seven local nonprofits also visited SLICC and talked with campers about their agencies and the work they are doing in our community.
